

FROM THE GROUND UP: ARE WE FRACKED?

A FORUM ON COAL SEAM GAS MINING

Coal Seam Gas mining is emerging as a serious threat to our environment and our ground water.

Share others' experiences and join the conversation with experts, activists, politicians from across the Murray-Darling and Great Artesian Basins as we discuss:

- Coal seam gas: Where? By whom? For whom?
- Ground water/surface water: Basin connectivities?
- Hydraulic fracking: How? With what consequences?
- Land Rights: Indigenous rights, farmers' rights, community rights
- The Murray-Darling Basin Plan (Draft due Nov 2011)

Speakers and panellists include:

Rosemary Nankivell, Farmer Chairperson, Coal Seam Gas Committee, Caroon Coal Action Group (NSW); Tim Duddy, Liverpool Plains Farmer, Councillor and Environmental Advocate (NSW); Tim Kelly, CEO, Conservation Council of South Australia; Peter Owen, The Wilderness Society (SA); Sarah Moles, Secretary Lock the Gate, Darling Downs, Qld; Senator Nick Xenophon (Ind), South Australia; Senator Sarah Hanson-Young (The Greens) South Australia; Ruth Beach, The Environmental Defenders Office (SA) Inc.; Diane Bell: Chair, River, Lakes and Coorong Action Group Inc.; Paul Ferguson, Geo9 geologist (minerals exploration).
